For: listening to and watching music videos

Visit YouTube by opening your web browser and going www.youtube.com

What is Youtube, why should I use it, and how?

Youtube is a video website on which you can find lots of music. It contains thousands of songs, new and old - nearly anything you could be looking for! It is free to use, and doesn't require you to set up an account to watch videos, making it one of the cheapest and easiest ways to listen to a music.

- 1 Go to www.youtube.com, and search for the song you want in the search bar circled below. At the next screen, look through the results until you find the song you want, and click its picture to start the video.

- 2 The video will start playing automatically, although you may be shown an advert before the songs begins. You can pause the video, adjust the volume, or make the video expand to fit your full screen through the settings circled in yellow below.
